Date: 18 February 2011

Five main hedging months for sunflower seed remain unchanged

With reference to notice A1307, the Agricultural Advisory Committee discussed the proposal to include the trading month of APRIL as an additional hedging month and based on the limited support received for this proposal it was agreed that the main hedging months for the sunflower seed contract remain unchanged, namely March, May, July, September and December.

The April expiry will continue to be treated as a constant month contract and since the introduction program has been standardized, this expiry will be introduced 40 trading days before the first business day of the expiry month.
